How did the Fund perform last year?

- For the 12-month period ended December 31, 2025, the Fund’s Class C shares returned 3.54%.
- In comparison, the Bloomberg Global Aggregate Index (Hedged) (the “Index”) returned 4.86% for the same period.

What affected the Fund’s performance?

- Global fixed income markets performed well, supported by tighter spreads and high running yields. Performance of risk-free rates was mixed, with most major yield curves steepening.
- The Fund’s relative performance benefited primarily from active positioning for a steeper U.S. yield curve. Relative value in the inflation space and security selection were secondary drivers of performance.
- Underweight exposure to credit beta detracted from relative returns, particularly in the second and third quarters. Japanese yield curve flatteners and active foreign-exchange positioning were secondary detractors.
